PALMDALE – The Palmdale City Library will host its new STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) program for kids ages 5 to 10 called “ThinkShop” on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 5 on at the Library, located at 700 E. Palmdale Blvd.

This fun and free event will encourage kids to solve problems in creative ways in a hands-on environment and design cool objects with ordinary components.

“We’ve got some fun materials that kids can use to solve interesting physics-based problems,” said the program’s coordinator, Janet McLagan. “Develop your kids’ STEM skills in a fun educational environment.”
